

ONTARIO'S "CORRECTIONAL" SYSTEM IS FAILING!

Did you know?

Toronto Life (2017) dubbed Toronto South Detention Centre (TSDC) a "$1-billion hellhole."

In TSDC's first 2 years, four inmates died and fourteen inmates attempted suicide (Toronto Life, 2017).

According to the Ontario Human Rights Commission (OHRC) (2020), "Toronto South contains a large proportion of Indigenous and Black prisoners," which speaks to the colonial system's perpetual racial violence.

According to OHRC (2020), "segregation [...] is being replaced by correctional practices that result in substantially similar conditions of confinement without associated legal and policy protections."

According to OHRC (2020), "Prisoners face several systemic challenges to maintaining family and community contact, which has a disparate negative impact on prisoners with caregiving responsibilities."
